Kit List

Introduction

'There's no such thing as bad weather, only unsuitable clothing.'

Alfred Wainwright

Everyone has their preferences and ideas when it comes to kit, but based on our extensive experience and using our guides' knowledge we've compiled the following kit list for general mountaineering in the Alps and beyond. This list is applicable for most of our climbing courses including Mont Blanc, Matterhorn, Eiger, Alpine Skills, Ice Climbing and more.

Our aim for this list is to provide you with ideas and information to make sure you are well prepared to battle the harsh elements that can be experienced in the alpine environments we run our trips in.

Please note these are only suggestions but our recommendations are based on guides' knowledge, testing and years of experience in the mountains.

Down Jackets

Down Jackets MENS and WOMENS
Fjorm Hydrophobic Power Down Jacket

Stuffed with 850 Fill Power hydrophobic goose down, in a premium 93/7 down/feather ratio, the Fjörm is one of the warmest down jackets on the market. Water-repellent down from DownTek™ stays dry 10x longer than untreated down.

Box wall body construction, fleece cuff liners and oversized zip baffling maximise warmth. A Durable Water Repellent rip-stop face fabric resists the wet, and potential moisture zones at the cuffs, hem and collar contain synthetic insulation. A belay-friendly two-way zip and helmet compatible hood with moldable peak add to the Fjörm’s benchmark credentials.

Mid-Layer/Fleece

Mid-layer/Fleece MENS and WOMENS
Alfa Mid & Outer Layer Mountain Jacket

Worn either as an outer or mid-layer, the Alfar is aimed at fast-paced aerobic activity in cold climates where freedom of movement is crucial. Your core is insulated with a breathable 120g/m² synthetic fill wrapped in a windproof, Durable Water Repellent (DWR) treated, micro rip-stop nylon. Polartec® Powerstretch Pro® sleeves and side panels optimise stretch and breathability. Thumb loops, harness compatible pockets and a close-fitting insulated under-helmet hood make the Alfar a multi-functional, technical mountain essential.
